NORDICS

INTRODUCTION

The Nordic countries (Nordics) are a geographical and cultural region in Northern Europe and the North Atlantic. They consist of Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden, including the associated territories of Greenland, the Faroe Islands and the Åland Islands.

At 3,425,804 square kilometres, the combined area of the Nordic countries would form the 7th-largest country in the world. More than fifty percent of this area is uninhabitable and formed by icecaps and glaciers, mostly in Greenland. Combined population is around 26 million people.

Stockholm's most noted restaurants of recent years have one concept in common: Scandinavian culinary tradition in an innovative version, carefully selected ingredients and a focus on locally produced, organic foods.

Martin Andersson - Head Chef

The history of Utö Inn begins in the late 19th century when the land was sold to a gentleman known as Merchant Lewin. Soon after his purchase the northern portion of Utö was transformed from a sleepy mining community to a fashionable beach and spa resort.

Serving traditional Swedish cuisine, Utö Vårdshus is one hour away from central Stockholm, and only accessible by boat. Over the years it has evolved into a year-round restaurant and conference resort which offers a variety of activities and events.

NORDIC MOOD

Brasserie

The Brasserie is a restaurant where the flavours are characterised by Scandinavian craftsmanship and a huge passion for food. Here, local produce and Nordic flavours are the menu's thread.

Located within the Royal Opera building the Brasserie opened its doors in 2015 after a careful renovation of the Opera building. This stunning building also comprises a number of outdoor terraces allowing diners to admire the stunning views of the city.

Head Chef Gustaf also travels with and cooks for the international Swedish football team.

Le Rouge

As the name suggests, Le Rouge pays homage to turn-of-the-century Paris with rich velvet décor and gold detailing à la Moulin Rouge. Its vaulted ceiling and candlelit interior sets the tone for a romantic evening.

With a menu of both Swedish and International flavours, Le Rouge's menu is all about organic and sustainable practices.
